An Important Note on Academic Integrity:

New York University holds that academic honesty must form the foundation of all university work. It is essential for ethical and evaluative reasons that you complete the test and the interview without input from other people and without consulting any other resource. If there is evidence that you have received outside help in completing the OWL test or the online interview, either from another person or from a book, a website, or any other resource, your score will be zero, and offer of conditional admission will be withdrawn.
