Dear SPS Community,

Welcome back for the start of the Fall 2022 semester! I am so very excited to welcome our new and returning students, faculty, and staff. A community is defined by our shared experiences and the places where we come together to learn, work, and connect. This semester, the SPS Dean’s Office is pleased to announce the launch of the Learning Analytics Research & Education Network (LEARN), a new initiative that will help us better understand and support our students. LEARN will work with the Office of Student Affairs to collate existing information, compile relevant data, and develop tools and strategies to support student success. The editorial team receives many submissions, and it will be difficult to include all. Ideas for stories with supporting materials are welcome.

New Initiatives

In an effort to increase transparency, we will be including our monthly KPIs in the Dean’s Remarks. This will provide a more holistic view of our progress and help us stay accountable to our strategic vision.

In this edition of the Dean’s Remarks we will share updates on new staff and faculty as we continue to build a diverse and inclusive community. We are particularly excited to welcome Dr. Rachel Eunjoon Um to the SPS faculty. Dr. Um is a leader in the field of technology-enhanced learning and has a wealth of experience in developing innovative educational programs. We are confident that her expertise and dedication will contribute greatly to our mission.

We are also pleased to announce the 81st Institute on Federal Taxation, a flagship event for the Institute on Federal Taxation. This year’s conference will feature leading experts in the field and provide high-level insights into the latest trends and developments.

The NYU School of Professional Studies (SPS) is proud to collaborate with Phocuswright, the world’s leading travel industry research authority, to advance innovation, guidance, and entrepreneurship for students, startups, and the University community. Phocuswright will provide the hub for research and analysis, data visualization tools, and industry insights, as well as access to its full library of research reports and analysis.

NYU Center for Publishing and Applied Liberal Arts and Technology Collaberation Advances Startup Success in Travel

The NYU SPS Institute on Federal Taxation will be held October 23-28, 2022. For more information, please visit the SPS website or contact the SPS Office of Student Life.

OPPORTUNITIES TO ENGAGE

First-Gen Grad Students: Overview of Wasserman Center Services

In an effort to increase transparency, we will be including our monthly KPIs in the Dean’s Remarks. This will provide a more holistic view of our progress and help us stay accountable to our strategic vision.

For those graduate students interested in a student worker position within the SPS Dean’s Office, please apply here.

Available!

Dean’s Office Graduate Student Worker Position

New Initiatives

In an effort to increase transparency, we will be including our monthly KPIs in the Dean’s Remarks. This will provide a more holistic view of our progress and help us stay accountable to our strategic vision.

In this edition of the Dean’s Remarks we will share: updates on new staff and faculty as we continue to build a diverse and inclusive community. We are particularly excited to welcome Dr. Rachel Eunjoon Um to the SPS faculty. Dr. Um is a leader in the field of technology-enhanced learning and has a wealth of experience in developing innovative educational programs. We are confident that her expertise and dedication will contribute greatly to our mission.

We are also pleased to announce the 81st Institute on Federal Taxation, a flagship event for the Institute on Federal Taxation. This year’s conference will feature leading experts in the field and provide high-level insights into the latest trends and developments.

The NYU School of Professional Studies (SPS) is proud to collaborate with Phocuswright, the world’s leading travel industry research authority, to advance innovation, guidance, and entrepreneurship for students, startups, and the University community. Phocuswright will provide the hub for research and analysis, data visualization tools, and industry insights, as well as access to its full library of research reports and analysis.

The NYU SPS Institute on Federal Taxation will be held October 23-28, 2022. For more information, please visit the SPS website or contact the SPS Office of Student Life.

OPPORTUNITIES TO ENGAGE

First-Gen Grad Students: Overview of Wasserman Center Services

In an effort to increase transparency, we will be including our monthly KPIs in the Dean’s Remarks. This will provide a more holistic view of our progress and help us stay accountable to our strategic vision.

For those graduate students interested in a student worker position within the SPS Dean’s Office, please apply here.

Available!

Dean’s Office Graduate Student Worker Position

New Initiatives

In an effort to increase transparency, we will be including our monthly KPIs in the Dean’s Remarks. This will provide a more holistic view of our progress and help us stay accountable to our strategic vision.

In this edition of the Dean’s Remarks we will share: updates on new staff and faculty as we continue to build a diverse and inclusive community. We are particularly excited to welcome Dr. Rachel Eunjoon Um to the SPS faculty. Dr. Um is a leader in the field of technology-enhanced learning and has a wealth of experience in developing innovative educational programs. We are confident that her expertise and dedication will contribute greatly to our mission.

We are also pleased to announce the 81st Institute on Federal Taxation, a flagship event for the Institute on Federal Taxation. This year’s conference will feature leading experts in the field and provide high-level insights into the latest trends and developments.

The NYU School of Professional Studies (SPS) is proud to collaborate with Phocuswright, the world’s leading travel industry research authority, to advance innovation, guidance, and entrepreneurship for students, startups, and the University community. Phocuswright will provide the hub for research and analysis, data visualization tools, and industry insights, as well as access to its full library of research reports and analysis.

The NYU SPS Institute on Federal Taxation will be held October 23-28, 2022. For more information, please visit the SPS website or contact the SPS Office of Student Life.

OPPORTUNITIES TO ENGAGE

First-Gen Grad Students: Overview of Wasserman Center Services

In an effort to increase transparency, we will be including our monthly KPIs in the Dean’s Remarks. This will provide a more holistic view of our progress and help us stay accountable to our strategic vision.

For those graduate students interested in a student worker position within the SPS Dean’s Office, please apply here.

Available!

Dean’s Office Graduate Student Worker Position

New Initiatives

In an effort to increase transparency, we will be including our monthly KPIs in the Dean’s Remarks. This will provide a more holistic view of our progress and help us stay accountable to our strategic vision.

In this edition of the Dean’s Remarks we will share: updates on new staff and faculty as we continue to build a diverse and inclusive community. We are particularly excited to welcome Dr. Rachel Eunjoon Um to the SPS faculty. Dr. Um is a leader in the field of technology-enhanced learning and has a wealth of experience in developing innovative educational programs. We are confident that her expertise and dedication will contribute greatly to our mission.

We are also pleased to announce the 81st Institute on Federal Taxation, a flagship event for the Institute on Federal Taxation. This year’s conference will feature leading experts in the field and provide high-level insights into the latest trends and developments.

The NYU School of Professional Studies (SPS) is proud to collaborate with Phocuswright, the world’s leading travel industry research authority, to advance innovation, guidance, and entrepreneurship for students, startups, and the University community. Phocuswright will provide the hub for research and analysis, data visualization tools, and industry insights, as well as access to its full library of research reports and analysis.

The NYU SPS Institute on Federal Taxation will be held October 23-28, 2022. For more information, please visit the SPS website or contact the SPS Office of Student Life.

OPPORTUNITIES TO ENGAGE

First-Gen Grad Students: Overview of Wasserman Center Services

In an effort to increase transparency, we will be including our monthly KPIs in the Dean’s Remarks. This will provide a more holistic view of our progress and help us stay accountable to our strategic vision.

For those graduate students interested in a student worker position within the SPS Dean’s Office, please apply here.

Available!

Dean’s Office Graduate Student Worker Position

New Initiatives

In an effort to increase transparency, we will be including our monthly KPIs in the Dean’s Remarks. This will provide a more holistic view of our progress and help us stay accountable to our strategic vision.

In this edition of the Dean’s Remarks we will share: updates on new staff and faculty as we continue to build a diverse and inclusive community. We are particularly excited to welcome Dr. Rachel Eunjoon Um to the SPS faculty. Dr. Um is a leader in the field of technology-enhanced learning and has a wealth of experience in developing innovative educational programs. We are confident that her expertise and dedication will contribute greatly to our mission.

We are also pleased to announce the 81st Institute on Federal Taxation, a flagship event for the Institute on Federal Taxation. This year’s conference will feature leading experts in the field and provide high-level insights into the latest trends and developments.

The NYU School of Professional Studies (SPS) is proud to collaborate with Phocuswright, the world’s leading travel industry research authority, to advance innovation, guidance, and entrepreneurship for students, startups, and the University community. Phocuswright will provide the hub for research and analysis, data visualization tools, and industry insights, as well as access to its full library of research reports and analysis.

The NYU SPS Institute on Federal Taxation will be held October 23-28, 2022. For more information, please visit the SPS website or contact the SPS Office of Student Life.