

SOCIAL SCIENCES COURSES OF INTERDISCIPLINARY INTEREST

The faculty of the Division of Applied Undergraduate Studies values interdisciplinarity and the richness of the perspectives that diversity brings to every field and program of study. As such, students are encouraged to consider courses outside of their specific degree area. To help you explore our course catalog, here are a few courses that we think might interest you, by program:

FALL 2021

ANTHROPOLOGY

- * ANTH1-UC 5300 Cultural Anthropology
- ◆♣ ANTH1-UC 5047 Anthropology of Religion

ECONOMICS

- ★◆ ECON1-UC0351 Economics and Gender
- * ECON1-UC0375 Industrialization and Development in China

HISTORY

- * HIST1-UC 5812 Modern Middle East in International History

MEDIA STUDIES

- ★ METS1-UC 6047 Media and Community

ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR AND CHANGE (OBC)

- ★× ORBC1-UC 2246 Gender Issues in Organization

POLITICS/INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

- +●* POLS1-UC6674 International Political Economy
- ▲♣ POLS1-UC 6648 Civil Rights: Race, Gender and the Law
- ▲●* POLS1-UC 6653 US Foreign Policy

PSYCHOLOGY

- ✓♣ PSYC1-UC6847 Social Psychology

SOCIOLOGY

- + SOCY1-UC7290 Special Topics: Markets, Hierarchies and Democracies
- * SOCY1-UC7201 Contemporary Social Theory
- ★ SOCY1-UC7268 Sexuality and Society

SUMMER 2021

ECONOMICS

- * ECON1-UC 344 International Financial Markets and Trade

POLITICS/INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

- + POLS1-UC 7290 Special Topics: Interrogating Political Globalization

SOCIOLOGY

- ✓● SOCY-1 UC 7290 Special Topics: Citizenship, State and Democracy

— KEY —

The following symbols are used to identify concentrations of interest for each course. An asterisk (*) indicates that the course is crosslisted.

- ★ = Anthropology
- + = Economics
- ▲ = History
- = International studies
- = Media studies
- ◆ = OBC
- ✓ = Politics
- × = Psychology
- ♣ = Sociology