Dear Friends and Members of the NYU School of Professional Studies Community,

Throughout my years in higher education, I have found one thing to be true: a culture of innovation drives student impact and success and defines a strong school and programs. And that is what we strive for here at the NYU School of Professional Studies (NYU SPS).

In my first year at NYU SPS, I found strong, diverse, innovative programs, dedicated, student-focused faculty and staff, and a distinctive interdisciplinary approach to professional education. All of these truly set us apart from other academic institutions.

Professional education is in our blood; it is in our DNA. From introducing career-focused programs serving the needs of New Yorkers, including immigrants, veterans, and women in the 1930s, and developing continuing education and four-year part-time study programs, to today’s education curricula designed in partnership with industry, NYU SPS has provided access and opportunity to New York City and the broader community for nearly 90 years.

Today, we are in a position of strength with one of the most diverse portfolios of educational offerings at NYU, including:

- 22 Master's Degrees
- 3 Traditional Bachelor's Degrees
- 10 Degree Completion Bachelor's Degrees
- 4 Associate Degrees
- 82 Certificate Programs
- 1,066 Unique Continuing Ed Offerings

In the coming years, we will continue to advance our mission to help prepare our students to succeed at all stages of their educational and professional journeys by providing transformative learning steeped in real-world applications while impacting global industries, professions, and communities.

To help direct those efforts forward, we created our Vision 2025 plan, a roadmap for how we will educate the workforce of today and tomorrow. Underscoring our commitment to innovation, inclusion, diversity, belonging, and equity, Vision 2025 outlines our dynamic and interdisciplinary approach to help shape:

- The Future of Work – Responsive to Industry/Workforce Trends
- Lifelong Learning – Accessible and Relevant to a Diverse Set of Learners
- Learner Experience – Using Technology to Optimize the Education Experience

We have taken notable steps in creating and moving forward our mission and vision for NYU SPS during my first year, the 2021-2022 academic year—many of which are highlighted in this annual report.

I want to thank the entire NYU SPS community for their continued commitment and dedication to helping create a unique applied learning environment for our students, lifelong learners, and industry partners. I look forward to working with all of you to continue to make us #NYUSPSStrong.

Sincerely,

Angie Kamath
Harvey J. Stedman Dean of the School of Professional Studies

About the NYU School of Professional Studies

For nearly 90 years, the NYU School of Professional Studies (NYU SPS) has been a deeply respected institution of higher education grounded in applied learning. Through its students, faculty, and staff and more than 39,000 alumni, NYU SPS has left its mark contributing to innovation in industries around the world.

From its early years training World War II veterans to fulfill the nation’s urgent need for skilled workers, it has evolved into a professional education powerhouse. It has served as an incubator for new ideas in constantly changing industries, including real estate; hospitality and tourism; global affairs; sports; publishing; marketing; human resources; management and systems; translation; and professional writing. Its faculty members are leading experts in their disciplines, with a hands-on approach that encourages students to excel.

Home to some of the most prestigious industry conferences in the world, including the Schack Institute’s Capital Markets Conference and the Tisch Center’s International Hospitality Industry Investment Conference, the School offers its students invaluable connections to industry leaders, a genuinely distinguishing factor in the education it provides.
TRACK RECORD IN SERVING INDUSTRY

NYU SPS has served New York City and the broader community with access and opportunity for nearly 90 years.

1930s
Career-focused programs introduced to serve needs of New Yorkers including immigrants, veterans, and women.

1970s
Continuing education and a four-year, part-time study program developed for students age 21 and over.

Today
SPS leads in undergraduate, graduate, and continuing education programs developed in partnership with industry.

2025
Create a portfolio of educational pathways and bridge programs. Improve graduation and postgraduate outcomes.

2030
Have a vibrant student community of diverse learners. Offer scholarships at all levels to attract and retain more diverse students.

GLOBAL LEADER IN PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

Three pillars set a framework for establishing what we do, prioritizing our work as a school, and measuring our collective impact.

Future of Work
Responsive to Industry/Workforce Trends

Lifelong Learning
Accessible and Relevant to a Diverse Set of Learners

Learner Experience
Use of technology, supports, and tools to optimize the educational experience
NYU SPS Joins OneTen as a Talent Development Partner

NYU SPS was endorsed as a talent development partner by OneTen, a coalition of leading chief executives and their companies, committed to upskill, hire, and advance 1,000,000 Black Americans into family sustaining jobs over the next 10 years.
NYU SPS Jonathan M. Tisch Center of Hospitality Launches the Hospitality Innovation Hub

Artificial intelligence, digital marketing, virtual reality, sustainability, and globalization are all factors that leaders of the Hospitality Industry will need to consider as they plan their strategy for the future. The Tisch Center’s Innovation Hub provides a place for them to congregate, debate, and create. It illustrates our deep commitment to encouraging the innovation that will drive the change to come.

NYU SPS Establishes Afghan Crisis Fellowship

The August 2021 emergency evacuation of Afghanistan created a crisis with tens of thousands of refugees, some of whom have reached and settled in the US. In response to this crisis, the NYU SPS Center for Global Affairs (CGA), with a commitment of funds from NYU SPS Dean Angie Kamath, created an opportunity for three eligible evacuees to receive a $25,000 non-resident academic fellowship. In January 2022, Hamed Ahamadi, a journalist and peacebuilder; Metra Mehran, a human rights activist; and Roya Saqib, a social justice and women’s rights advocate, were selected as the Fellowship recipients.
Metaverse Collaborative at NYU SPS

Amidst the continued convergence of the physical, digital, and virtual worlds into our future work and personal lives, NYU SPS created its Metaverse Collaborative, a cross-industry initiative formed to understand the metaverse and its impact better. By bringing together a diverse set of perspectives, we intend to keep pace with the movement and evolution underway in the metaverse, provide a unique lens on and better clarity around the associated opportunities, challenges, and risks, and prepare the broader NYU SPS community to succeed in a metaverse-inspired future.
PR/Corporate Communication Program Named to PRNews Education A-List

The MS in Public Relations and Corporate Communication was named to the 2022 PRNews Education A-List, which recognizes the best institutions of higher education for career advancement in the industry. The process for selection is competitive and focuses on the ways in which programs prepare students for success. The graduate degree was also named “Outstanding Education Program” by PRWeek earlier in the year.

New NYU MS in Financial Planning Receives CFP® Board Registration

The recently launched MS in Financial Planning, offered by the Division of Programs in Business, received CFP® Board Registration. This designation is the gold standard for the industry, positioning those who earn the degree from NYU SPS for new opportunities in this growing field. The 30-credit program, which can be completed in as little as one year of full-time study, prepares students for financial planning jobs in wealth management practices such as registered independent advisory firms and settings like banks, investment firms, and insurance companies. The first cohort of students began their studies in Fall 2022.
NYU SPS Introduces Executive Master’s in Marketing and Strategic Communications

NYU SPS launched the first of its kind Executive Master’s in Marketing and Strategic Communications, a unique credential that prepares marketing and communications professionals with the skill sets and insights they need to ascend to the C-Suite. Responding to the transformation and disruption in the global business, marketing, and communications environment, the curriculum and executive format are designed for working professionals who want to accelerate their leadership growth and expand their capacity and potential. The program welcomed its first cohort of professionals with 10-15 years of experience in Fall 2022.

DPB Coaching Certificates Receive International Coaching Federation Accreditation

With an increasing number of individuals and organizations realizing the benefits of professional coaching services, the need for trained professionals in the field has grown rapidly and their certification is more important than ever before. The International Coaching Federation (ICF) accredited the Division of Programs in Business Certificate in Executive Coaching and Certificate in Professional Coaching earlier this year. These coaching programs prepare students to sit for the ICF exam, and are the wave of the future for the growing coaching industry.
Advertising Research Foundation and NYU SPS Launch Certificate in Marketing Optimization

The ARF (Advertising Research Foundation) and NYU SPS co-developed and launched the ARF Certificate in Marketing Optimization and Insights to provide professionals with real-world research and analytic methods needed to diagnose marketing problems, iterate solutions, and evaluate the effectiveness of campaigns. The program, which began in Spring 2022, consists of one required course, Foundations of Advertising Research, and six electives, of which three must be taken: Achieving Consumer Centricity; Campaign Objectives & Strategy; Discovering and Testing the Key Consumer Insight; Informing Creative Development; Media Assessment & Tactical Planning; and Campaign Effectiveness Measurement.

Tisch Center Cultivated Partnerships to Foster Innovation in Tourism Industry

Last year, the NYU SPS Tisch Center of Hospitality and The Sigmund Project, a free open-source platform for global innovators in travel and tourism, announced a collaboration that fosters entrepreneurship and creative solutions for the global tourism industry, while bringing the latest innovation and technology to Tisch students and future leaders of industry.
PALA Launched New Scholarship to Advance Diversity in Publishing

The NYU SPS Center for Publishing and Applied Liberal Arts (PALA) launched the Ulysses Press Scholarship Fund, granted by Ulysses Press founders Leslie Henriques and Ray Riegert. The Scholarship provides tuition assistance to students in PALA’s MS in Publishing and Summer Publishing Institute programs who demonstrate academic merit and have a deep and abiding commitment to promoting diversity in the industry.
Schack Students Partnered with MIT and Harvard Colleagues for Training

Last spring, graduate students from NYU SPS joined graduate students from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) and Harvard University for a series of intensive academic training, industry exchanges, and networking sessions. The collaboration afforded Schack students the opportunity to engage shoulder-to-shoulder with future professional colleagues from two of the most highly regarded university programs.

Schack Collaboration Provided Undergrads with Access to Financial Modeling Training

In collaboration with leading social impact platform Project Destined, the Schack Institute of Real Estate created a Teaching Fellowship that affords unparalleled access to technical training, including financial modeling and Excel fundamentals for diverse undergraduate students. The inaugural Project Destined Teaching Fellowship featured leading Schack professors and provided free, year-round access to live, financial modeling training for students who participated in Project Destined's Flagship Virtual Internship Program.
Schack Introduced NYCHA High School Students to Career Opportunities

The Schack Institute joined forces with Taconic Partners and the Fund for Public Housing to introduce students from underrepresented groups to careers in the traditionally white male-dominated commercial real estate industry. The NYCHA Real Estate Scholars Program, made possible with a grant from Taconic Partners, emphasizes equity and diversity in the real estate sector and focuses on introducing NYCHA youth residents to real estate development.
STRONG FACULTY

Tisch Institute Spearheaded Program to Promote DEI in the NFL

Leveraging his experience in running executive education programs in Spain, the UK, India, Argentina, and Qatar, Clinical Associate Professor Daniel Kelly helped launch the NYU-NFL Sports Executive Education Program. Alongside Associate Dean Vince Gennaro and Clinical Associate Professor Brandon Brown, Kelly created a comprehensive executive education program to help support the NFL’s commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI), and enhance the development of the next generation of NFL leaders.

Human Capital Management Academic Director Forecasts the Future of Work

Clinical Professor and Academic Director of the Human Capital Management Department Anna Tavis was interviewed by several South American outlets, including Valor, the largest economic newspaper in Brazil, on the topical global issue of workplace flexibility. Tavis stressed the need for work to be conducive to health, and for employers to pay attention to human psychology and the worker perspective.
Center for Global Affairs Deepened Its Engagement with the UN

Clinical Professor Waheguru Pal Singh Sidhu, director of the CGA United Nations (UN) Specialization, discussed the UN Initiative and CGA’s commitment to furthering the UN’s objectives moving deeper into the 21st century via pedagogy, policy-research, and problem-solving practicums. CGA partnered with the UN 75th Anniversary Office to provide data analysis for its worldwide UN75 survey.

Industry Veteran Appointed to Helm New MS in Financial Planning

Colin M. Slabach, PhD, CFP® was appointed as a clinical assistant professor and the faculty lead for the Division of Programs in Business’ 30-credit MS in Financial Planning when the degree was launched last fall. Slabach is an expert in financial planning, specializing in retirement planning and behavioral finance. The program prepares students for financial planning jobs in wealth management practices such as registered independent advisory firms and settings like banks, investment firms, and insurance companies.
Arianna Wendt, a student in the MS in Real Estate at the NYU SPS Schack Institute of Real Estate, understood at an early age that the design and construction of buildings and public spaces powerfully impact the way people live. Wendt, who will graduate in Spring 2023, has taken advantage of all the opportunities Schack has to offer, including serving as vice president of the Real Estate Institute Student Association (REISA) and as an editor-in-chief of Blueprint, the student-run publication.
Tisch Center Students Conduct Research in Events and Hospitality

At the Tisch Center of Hospitality, undergraduate and graduate students have the opportunity to design and conduct research studies in the fields of hospitality, travel and tourism, and event management. In this post, four students in the Spring 2022 capstone cohort, Sam Arpino, Megan Grote, Stacy Zuniga, and Shae Zhao, provide details on their research endeavors and highlight key takeaways from their projects.

Three Rimolo Family Members Earn Their Degrees at 2022 NYU SPS Convocation

The Rimolos, who hail from Union City, NJ, are an inspiring example of three members of multigenerational families who sought to earn college degrees to both launch and advance their careers. They graduated in May 2022 thanks to the School’s Division of Applied Undergraduate Studies and its Division of Programs in Business, which played instrumental roles in their combined success.

Tisch Institute Student Accepted into NYU’s Female Founders Fellowship Program

Caroline Fitzgerald, a graduate student at the Tisch Institute for Global Sport, was accepted into the NYU Female Founder Fellowship program. The NYU Entrepreneurial Institute initiative provides training, mentorship, networking, and funding resources to entrepreneurs who advance gender equity in their business. Fitzgerald is the founder of GOALS, the first-ever sponsorship consultancy solely focused on bringing more investment into women’s sports.
DAUS Alumna Lands Position with UN Development Program

Last year, we caught up with BA in Social Sciences graduate Fatima Ahmed-Farouta ’14, head of solutions mapping for the United Nations Development Program in Ghana. Ahmed-Farouta discussed how her studies at the Division of Applied Undergraduate Studies (DAUS) prepared her for success in the international arena.

Schack Alumnus Created Firm to Invest in Communities of Color

Last January, Schack alumnus Jerrod Delaine launched his own real estate firm, The Delaine Companies (TDC) to promote diversity in the commercial real estate industry. TDC specializes in the development, construction, and management of high-quality buildings. Delaine’s mission is to manage investors’ funds to earn the best returns while benefiting diverse communities.
STRONG EXPERIENCES

Through career development services and resources provided by the NYU Wasserman Center for Career Development at NYU SPS, guest lecturers, site visits, participation in numerous conferences and events, and internships, students benefit from an NYU education that will set them apart.

HCAT Grads Have Invaluable Opportunity to Intern at US EEOC

Two recent graduates of the MS in Human Capital Analytics and Technology (HCAT) program within the NYU SPS Division of Programs in Business (DPB) had the invaluable opportunity last semester to intern at the US Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). As part of their internships, Nick Truxal and Jessica Blodgett, who both graduated from the HCAT program in May, collaborated directly with EEOC Commissioner Keith Sonderling on high-level policy issues focusing on technology and the future of the workplace.
Tisch Center Undergrad Interns at Philadelphia Convention & Visitors Bureau

Victoria Kahn, a student in the BS in Hotel and Tourism Management program at the Tisch Center of Hospitality, served as a communications intern last semester at the Philadelphia Convention & Visitors Bureau, the official tourism promotion agency for the City of Philadelphia and the primary sales and marketing agency for the Pennsylvania Convention Center. The internship taught her how to work in a fast-paced environment and to handle multiple projects at once.

Tisch Center Graduate Student Interns at American Red Cross

During the spring semester, Kiana Blackshaw, a student in the MS in Event Management program at the Jonathan M. Tisch Center of Hospitality, worked at the American Red Cross as a Nonprofit Fundraising Event Coordinator Intern. She helped the special events teams to prepare for the Greater New York Heroes Among Us Gala and the Metro New York North Red & White Ball Fundraiser.
NYU SPS is home to some of the largest and most prestigious industry conferences in the world and offer strong networking opportunities for industry professionals, NYU SPS alumni and students.

NYU International Hospitality Industry Investment Conference

Hosted by the NYU School of Professional Studies Jonathan M. Tisch Center of Hospitality, the annual NYU International Hospitality Industry Investment Conference features general sessions, workshops, and networking events that provide data, analysis, perspectives, insights, and opportunities. Each year, through the generosity of patrons, sponsors and attendees, the Conference contributes over $2 million dollars to the Tisch Center Scholarship Fund to support student scholarships and other academic programs for our students and future industry leaders.

NYU SPS Schack Institute of Real Estate Annual Capital Markets Conference

For over half a century, the Capital Markets Conference, hosted by the NYU SPS Schack Institute of Real Estate, has been one of the industry’s preeminent forums on the state of commercial real estate capital markets and investment activity. This annual conference convenes industry leaders for vigorous debate and lively discussions on global equity and debt capital flows, institutional and private equity investment activity, and emerging sources of market disruption.
Schack Institute’s Women in Real Estate Symposium

At the Women in Real Estate Symposium, the Schack Institute convenes women serving in senior leadership roles at the industry’s most prominent firms for a wide-ranging discussion of the real estate market outlook and the forces shaping property investment, financing, development, and technology. This national event also serves as a critical mentorship platform for women executives and the next generation of real estate industry leaders.

Annual REIT Symposium, Hosted by the Schack Institute

For more than a quarter of a century, Schack’s REIT Symposium has convened top industry executives to provide perspectives and insights on the trends transforming the real estate investment trust (REIT) markets. More than 500 senior industry professionals, including the sector’s leading CEOs, bankers, lawyers, analysts, and investors, attend the Symposium each year and participate in the day’s discussions and debates.

Inaugural NYU Coaching and Technology Summit

Digital technology is fundamentally changing the coaching landscape. At the inaugural NYU Coaching and Technology Summit, hosted by the NYU SPS Division of Programs in Business’ Human Capital Management program, leaders in HR, business, and public sectors engaged with innovators, entrepreneurs, and thought leaders to explore how coaching is evolving in the digital age, the impact of technology and data on coaching services and employee well-being, new thinking on data access, ownership, privacy, and other ethical considerations, and integrating IDBEA into coaching.
VISION & MISSION

VISION 2025 is our roadmap for how we will educate the workforce of today and tomorrow. Underscoring our commitment to innovation, inclusion, diversity, belonging, and equity, VISION 2025 outlines our dynamic and interdisciplinary approach to helping shape the future of work, lifelong learning, and the learner experience.

"TO BE A GLOBAL LEADER IN PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION."

The SPS Learning Ecosystem – Learners are at the core of our educational mission. We immerse all members of our community in a diverse and rich network of formal and informal learning opportunities to advance their learning goals across the lifespan.

The NYU SPS Origin Story – For nearly 90 years, the New York University School of Professional Studies has distinguished itself by forecasting industry demands and developing educational programs and services for the world. Through undergraduate and graduate degrees, career advancement courses, certificate programs, and continuing education offerings, SPS has shaped the landscape of professional education. In the classroom, in the field, and online, our programs have inspired the next generation of leaders to innovate, communicate, and succeed in a constantly changing world that offers limitless opportunity.

Implications for Higher Education – Macro and micro political, economic, social, and technological forces are impacting multiple New York University School of Professional Studies key stakeholder communities.

"PREPARE OUR STUDENTS TO SUCCEED AT ALL STAGES OF THEIR EDUCATIONAL AND PROFESSIONAL JOURNEYS BY PROVIDING TRANSFORMATIVE LEARNING STEEPED IN REAL-WORLD APPLICATIONS, WHILE IMPACTING GLOBAL INDUSTRIES, PROFESSIONS, AND COMMUNITIES."
Our Community - The faculty and staff at the New York University School of Professional Studies share a value system that focuses on four key facets:

1. Academic Excellence
2. Tomorrow’s Challenges
3. Enduring Relationships
4. Collaborative Culture

Our practices are innovative, inclusive, and interdisciplinary, and are key to our continuously evolving culture. EXAMPLE: Urban Lab

Innovative – Reimagination and continuous transformation are central to advancing the SPS mission in a constantly shifting global society. EXAMPLE: I-Lab

Inclusive – We are stronger as an institution when there are a diversity of experiences and perspectives that inform our thinking and our work.

Interdisciplinary – We live in an increasingly complex world. Collaboration between experts across industry from multiple areas of study strengthens our educational work. EXAMPLE: Energy, Climate Justice, and Sustainability Lab

Our People – Our faculty and staff embody the values that are at the core of our school. Everyday, they shape and evolve the unique culture that defines NYU SPS.

“Our Policies and Plan of Action.”

“Core Practices that Drive Our Commitment to Learning.”
STRATEGIES & PRIORITIES

"FUNDAMENTAL BELIEFS

THAT GUIDE OUR ACTIONS."
NYU and NYU SPS are committed to building and strengthening a university-wide culture of global inclusion, diversity, belonging, equity, and access (GIDBEA). Our pledge and responsibility in this area are reflected in our diverse student, faculty, staff, administration, and alumni communities.
